Outreach Role Models - Expression of Interest

Are you an Aurora alumni, having been on the Aurora Study Tour or a Roberta Sykes Scholarship or Charlie Perkins Scholarship? Are you passionate about education, sharing your knowledge, and working with young people?

Join the Aurora team! The Outreach Program is a nationwide program connecting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students with Indigenous Role Models to inspire students to explore their own ideas of success. We are looking for Indigenous Role Models to attend 1-2 hour Outreach sessions, either on our academic enrichment camps or in schools – face to face and/or virtually.

The Outreach Program aims to inspire academic achievement and cultural pride while recognising the importance of community in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students. Your role would be to engage with Indigenous high school students speak about your own academic journey and career pathway and assist with facilitating student learning. The role is casual, and your hours would be shaped by event details which are confirmed at the time of booking. All Outreach sessions are facilitated by Indigenous Outreach staff. For more information or to apply please contact outreach@aurorafoundation.com.au.

Provides intensive academic support and cultural immersion from Year 8 to the first year out of school, building students' confidence, resilience and aspirations.

Connects students to scholarships and simplifies the application process, so more students can access financial aid.

Provides important career exposure through 4-6 week full-time internships, whilst supporting Indigenous and Indigenous-sector organisations.

Provides postgraduate opportunities at leading overseas universities through Charlie Perkins and Roberta Sykes Scholarships, and Executive Education Bursaries. The Aurora Study Tour takes high performing students to visit these universities.

Connects Indigenous Scholars with high school students to see what is possible and build aspirations.
